

NATION'S CHIEF IN WILKESBARRE

President Roosevelt Addresses Delegates of Catholic Total Abstinence Union.

SPEAKS FOR A TEMPERATE LIFE

And Takes Hearers Into His Confidences In An Exquisite Little Lay Sermon--Hand Of The Lord Sometimes Heavy On The Just.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-MORRIS.] Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 10.—President Roosevelt, accompanied by Assistant Secretary Barnes and a special party, arrived here today to address the miners and the delegates of the Catholic Total Abstinence Society which is holding its national convention in this city. He was given a rousing welcome by an immense crowd gathered at the depot. He delivered a sane, convincing talk on temperance, the text of which was as follows:

To Help Man Help Himself. "I am particularly glad to speak to this audience of miners and their wives and children, and especially to speak under the auspices of this great temperance society. In our country the happiness of all the rest of our people depends most of all upon the welfare of the wage-worker and the welfare of the farmer. If we can secure the welfare of these two classes we can be reasonably certain that the community as a whole will prosper. And we must never forget that the chief factor in securing the welfare alike of wage-worker and of farmer, as of everybody else, must be the man himself.

The only effective way to help anybody is to help him help himself. There are exceptional times when any one of us needs outside help, and then it should be given freely; but normally each one of us must depend upon his own exertions for his own success. Something can be done by wise legislation and by wise and honest administration of the laws; that is, something can be done by our action taken in our collective capacity through the State and the Nation. Something more can be done by combination and organization among ourselves in our private capacities as citizens, so long as this combination or organization is managed with wisdom and integrity, with insistence upon the rights of those benefited and yet with just regard for the rights of others.

But in the last analysis the factor most influential in determining any man's success must ever be the sum of that man's own qualities, of his knowledge, foresight, thrift, and courage. Whatever tends to increase his self-respect, whatever tends to help him overcome the temptations with which all of us are surrounded, is of benefit not only to him but to the whole community.

Necessity of Sobriety. No one society can do more to help the wage-worker than such a temperance society as that which I am now addressing. It is of incalculable consequence to the man himself that he should be sober and temperate, and it is of even more consequence to his wife and children; for it is a hard and cruel fact that in this life of ours the sins of the man are often visited most heavily upon those whose welfare should be his one special care.

For the drunkard, for the man who loses his job because he can not control or will not control his desire for liquor and for vicious pleasure, we have a feeling of anger and contempt mixed with our pity; but for his unfortunate wife and little ones we feel only pity, and that of the deepest and tenderest kind.

Everything possible should be done to encourage the growth of that spirit of self-restraint, self-respect, self-reliance, which if it only grows enough is certain to make all those in whom it shows itself move steadily upward toward the highest standard of American citizenship. It is a proud and responsible privilege to be citizens of this great self-governing Nation; and each of us needs to keep steadily before his eyes the fact that he is wholly unfit to take part in the work of governing others unless he can first govern himself. He must stand up manfully for his own rights; he must respect the rights of others; he must obey the law, and he must try to live up to those rules of righteousness which are above and behind all laws.

Applies to All. This applies just as much to the man of great wealth as to the man of small means; to the capitalist as to the wage-worker. And as one practical point, let me urge that in the event of any difficulty, especially if it is what is known as a labor trouble, both sides show themselves willing to meet, willing to consult, and anxious each to treat the other reasonably and fairly; each to look at the other's side of the case and to do the other justice. If only this course could be generally followed, the chance of industrial disaster would be minimized.

Now, my friends, I want to read to you an extract from a letter I have just received from a Catholic priest whom I know well and whom I know to be as staunch a friend of the laboring man as there is to be found in this country. Now and then—not too often—it is a good thing for all of us to hear what is not perhaps altogether palatable, provided only that the person who tells the truth is our genuine friend, knows what he is talking about, and is sincere.

DRILLING THE GIANT. Will this be one of the results of the war?

CONSIDER JAPAN'S CHANCES THE BEST

American Army Officers Figure on Outcome of War Should Peace Conference Fail.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, August 10.—Army officers have been busy for the past few days collecting statistics bearing upon the respective strength of the Russian and Japanese armies in the case they should be compelled to engage in a struggle as a result of a failure of the peace conference. It has been ascertained that the five Japanese armies opposing General Linvitch, exclusive of cavalry and artillery, are from 420,000 to 450,000 bayonets, which give Field Marshal Oyama, who is in command of the Russian army, a decided superiority over the Japanese. The Russian army is divided into the Japanese forces is as follows: Gen. Kuroid, 115,000 to 120,000 bayonets; Gen. Oku, 110,000 to 120,000 bayonets; Gen. Negi, 85,000 to 90,000; Gen. Nodzu, 45,000 and Gen. Kanura, 72,000 to 80,000 bayonets.

WESTERN INSURANCE INQUIRY COMMENCED

Commissioners From Four States Meet in Chicago with New York State Board.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Chicago, Ill., August 10.—A committee of four western and southern insurance commissioners began today a joint investigation with the New York legislative board and the intention is to make a thorough investigation of business in the East. Their list includes three of the largest insurance companies in New York. It is understood that considerable resentment is felt among western commissioners against Commissioner Hendricks of New York, in exculpating E. H. Harrison in his report on the Equitable. The attitude of the new clique is to be one of isolation from Easterners who are suspected of being tied up with the insurance companies they examine by the "reformers."

ENGLAND WELCOMES FLEET FROM FRANCE

Visiting Naval Body Given Grand Reception in London—Will Be Feted Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] London, August 10.—The French fleet which arrived off the coast of England today for an official visit, received a great welcome, which was supplemented by further enthusiasm when the officers arrived and were entertained at Guild hall. The visiting squadron was met in middle channel by England's channel fleet and escorted to the anchorage where the Atlantic fleet was waiting to welcome them. The visit of the French vessels is regarded as a new evidence of the friendship which Britain entertains for France and the English welcome is the best assurance that the nation appreciated the great reception recently accorded the British fleet by France. Tomorrow the French sailors will be feted at the Guild hall and driven around London. The routes to be traversed during the visit are already gaily decorated with flags, and each French sailor will receive a pin badge bearing the city arms as a souvenir of the trip.

CONJECTURE OF PEACE AND WAR

St. Petersburg Hears That The Japanese Terms Are To Be Acceptable.

PORTSMOUTH RUMORS OTHERWISE

Settlement Of War Seems To Be Far Away To The Correspondents Who Are Creating News In That Locality--The Negotiations.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-MORRIS.] St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—It is reported that Witte has telegraphed that he knows Japan's terms and that they will be acceptable with a few amendments. He believes the Japanese will accept the changes he will propose. The officials are more optimistic this morning and hopeful that the war will end soon.

Japan Makes First Move. Portsmouth, Aug. 10.—The peace envoys met this morning and formal-

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 10.—With the probability that Baron Komura will today reveal to the Russian plenipotentiaries the terms upon which Japan is willing to conclude peace, opinion as to the outcome among those who are congregated here to watch the proceedings has become decidedly pessimistic.

This is due to the growing conviction that Japan's conditions will not prove as moderate as were at one time anticipated and, especially in the matter of indemnity, may preclude the possibility of their acceptance by the Russian envoys as a basis of negotiation.

The firm attitude of M. de Witte in private conversation against the payment of an indemnity and the insistent reports emanating from Japanese quarters that a stiff war contribution approximating the cost of the war, variously stated at from $600,000,000 to $800,000,000, contributes one of Japan's demands, indicates a wide, if not an irreconcilable, difference between Japan's irreducible minimum and what Russia is prepared to accept.

Beat Around the Bush.

Upon the question of the payment of a large indemnity the instructions of the Russian plenipotentiaries are believed to admit of no concessions, although it is possible a certain compensation in kind might be arranged. For instance, it is suggested that for the relinquishment of the island of Sakhalin, now potentially in Japan's hands, the possession of which by Japan would give her command of the whole Siberian littoral, Russia could with propriety pay a large sum.

Gloomy forebodings, however, may be premature at this juncture, as everything indicates the plenipotentiaries upon both sides are sincerely desirous of concluding a treaty of peace.

Japs Guard Their Terms.

While the Russian plenipotentiaries expect the Japanese to present the Japanese terms immediately upon the official exchange of credentials, they admit they are in the dark. Baron Komura and his colleagues decline to give any intimation of their course of procedure.

Pursuing the tactics which they have constantly followed in all their diplomatic and military operations, they are carefully guarding all their plans regarding the present meeting. The Japanese and the Russian newspaper correspondents have broken the ice and have begun to fraternize. It is perhaps significant that the correspondents on both sides are sending to their respective homes dispatches of anything but an optimistic character.

RUSSIAN AND JAPANESE PEACE ENVOYS.

A Guess at Terms. Portsmouth, Aug. 10.—"The Portsmouth Conference will end in a treaty of peace," says Ejirō Takahira, professor in Tokyo University, who is present in this city. He said he believed Japan's terms include the immediate evacuation of Manchuria, the cession of the island of Caghalin and Vladivostok, and a billion dollars. He said the indemnity might be reduced if peace were obtainable in no other way.

Guessing at Results.

PARTICULARS OF THE DENVER BANK RUN

Depositors Who Assemble in Front of Buildings Are Turned Away, When Officers Refuse to Open.

Denver, Colo., Aug. 10.—Following the run Tuesday on the Denver Savings and Central Savings banks, the Western bank, a state institution, refused to open its door Wednesday morning in the face of a threatened run. At the opening time a small crowd of depositors was at the door, and the officers decided not to open the doors, because they had so much money on loan that they could not start a run.

The withdrawal continued all day at the Denver Savings bank, which is still paying the legal 10 per cent to the depositors. The Western bank has a capital of only $100,000, and is not a member of the clearing house.

The threatened run on the Western bank was said to have been due to the statement that Leonard A. Imboden, a heavy stockholder in the Denver Savings was also interested heavily in the Western. The publication of Imboden's career as a financier in Missouri and Texas is said to have caused the depositors in his two institutions some uneasiness. The deposits in the Western are about $1,000,000.

SLEEP WASTED AFTER FIVE A. M.

"CITIZEN" TAKES NO STOCK IN NEW THEORY

DIVORCE LOVELY EVENING

And Wed the Glorious Morning Hours,
Is His Command—Chautauqua
Meets with Full Approval.

Early rising lowers man's vitality and results in brain-fag and early decay, according to a pronouncement recently made by a London specialist. With this new-fangled health-rule "Citizen" joins issue.

Mr. Editor: "Early to bed and early to rise," etc., etc., our good grandmothers used to tell us boys. It is an undisputed fact that such habits formed and put into practice will be a winning card. Some of our best, most wealthy and healthful citizens are early risers, and have been from early manhood up.

A few days since we met a stalwart business man in front of his big store—broom in hand, having just finished sweeping his entire front walk. The hour was 6 a. m. Accosting him with the usual morning greeting—"Good morning, sir! You are early." He quickly responded, "Oh no, sir! I'm late—should be home now breakfasting at this hour." "Nice morning."

Here was a living example of push and prosperity. He made early hours but did not keep late hours. This he practiced for many years and welded to his habits what the learned physiologists and health scientists have pronounced, that early rising, and early retiring, are vitally essential to good health and consequent longevity. We have known this business gentleman for forty years—knew him when he was a clerk, then possessed of stir and industry and working with indomitable industry in the interest of his employer. Are there not many employees who might emulate the qualities of this model business man, that they might look more to the interest of their employers, thereby gaining a reciprocating interest of much profit to themselves? The early morning air is full of life-giving oxygen, more or less dispelled toward evening by hydrogen. Then see, by early rising, how easy to get "satan behind" and plow to the front. When evening comes, notice your day's accomplishments, and how readily yielding to the persuasive quiet evening for a sweet and wholesome rest. Always remember, what the scientist teaches, that one hour's sleep before midnight is worth two after.

Rest delayed beyond 9 p. m. is dissipation, and rest taken after 5 a. m. is wasted time. Now if any one can figure out any profit in dissipation and waste, he may go to the head of his class in mathematics. It will undoubtedly be said by many, "Can I give up those lovely evening hours? Divorce from eve, wed the morning hours, and ere long you will note that the bright eye, clear head and tinted cheeks, will banish the sunken eye and sluggish brain and pallid complexion."

Spitting Ordinance Again.
The other day, in a drug store, we discovered a lady sitting mid-way of the store, coughing, which occasioned the necessity for spitting. She arose, passed out, crossed the sidewalk and spat in the gutter. Good example to many men and others.
A lady, or gentleman, have their marks, which can be observed in a thousand ways. This gentility is born of many and should and should be cultivated by all. There are many personal qualifications on these lines which are of more value than "much richness." A well-bred person—which means, simply, of clean thoughts and deeds in whatever of willing hands are ready to do, is our ideal of the near perfect man or woman.

Chautauqua.
Chautauqua in assembly here, forged its way into the hearts' approval of the many thousands in attendance. Chautauqua had not been understood by the masses, consequently a languid prejudice against the society prevailed. Chautauqua in real assembly here, has dispelled those prejudices and has taken hold of the hearts of the people to the mutual benefit of all. The now apparent result will be the permanently establishing of Janesville Chautauqua.

For a vacation, healthful recreation, religious instruction, a school in science, ethics, history, political economy, and all general and useful knowledge, Chautauqua embodies all. The annual vacation for our good people can be taken at home hereafter, which will not be expensive, but of a pleasurable profit in many ways. The innovation on rustivating at the sea-side, and other popular resorts, to tan our skin, and blow our wealth, can be made right here which will take the tan from our brains and save the tin in our pockets. Yours very sincerely,
"CITIZEN."

Mesdames W. W. Porter and C. N. Van Kirk were hostesses of four hundred ladies yesterday afternoon at the suburban home of Mrs. Porter in the town of Janesville. The affair was a garden party and the surroundings, beautiful in the freshness and serenity of nature, and the ideal weather lent charm to the occasion. The house was tastefully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants and in the parlors the guests were received by the hostesses, and Mrs. Porter's mother. On the shaded lawn of verdant green, where places to rest had been arranged, the hours were pleasantly spent and refreshments, which were in charge of Mrs. Louise Bowerman, were served beneath a vine arbor. The event was one of the season's social successes and but few ladies sent regrets. The trip to and from the farm was made by carryall.

JURY AT MADISON.

IS RICHARDSON IN THE RACE

For the Postmastership of Bower
City? Madison Dispatch Says
Nowlan's Scalp Is Wanted.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., August 10.—Harry Sloan of Janesville, who has been spending much of his time in Madison for the past year or more, declares that he is determined to cause the summoning of a grand jury in Dane county, for the purpose of probing into various suggestions of graft deals in city, state, county and federal affairs. People here are at a loss to know what he means by including federal affairs in his somewhat sensational declarations, and for that reason his statements are to a degree discounted. Naturally people of political mind opposite to the administration concur with him in the belief that there are things in the various departments of the state government that would bear investigation, at least as to their regularity and economy, if not actually to discover graft. Quite naturally, the friends of the administration smile at this line of talk and declare that "Harry" Sloan is an irresponsible mouthpiece. People here who are familiar with the operations, conduct and personal make-up of the Dane county board of supervisors take no stock in any suggestion to the effect that there is graft in county affairs, for the hardheadedness of the frugal old farmers who control the county board is proverbial and their economy is of the extreme type that frequently makes the mistake of spending so carefully as not adequately to provide for actual needs. As to city affairs, however, the hints at graft are received with more credulity. The Madison municipal government is handling close to half a million dollars a year. Not infrequently the expenditures for special street improvements and sewer construction, which are assessed against the affected property, amount to nearly $100,000. It is said that in these latter avenues the greatest opportunity for investigation exists. Whether "Harry" has made any progress with his crusade or has received any encouragement from District Attorney Gilbert is not yet known, but the Janesville attorney is persistently talking.

THEODORE HAPKE GOES TO ROCHESTER AFTER A PLANT

Work of Dismantling Sugar Refinery
Which is to Be Removed to Madison Has Commenced.

Rochester, Mich.—Theodore Hapke of Chicago, manager of the United States Sugar company at Madison, Wis., arrived here Tuesday evening. Eugene Steenky, chief engineer, has been here for a month making sketches and drawings of the sugar refinery located here and formerly owned by the Detroit Sugar company. The work of dismantling and shipping the plant to Madison will be pushed from now on. It will require thirty or forty men three months to complete the job. The plant was erected for its former owners by the W. H. Wolfe company of Chicago, and was operated five seasons, but the soil of the immediate vicinity not being generally adapted to beet culture, and the long freight bills caused the venture to prove unprofitable.

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE.

R. T. Crane, president of the R. T. Crane company of Chicago, is recognized as one of the most popular employers of labor in the country. The company does an extensive business and employs thousands of men.

The annual picnic established fifty years ago, was held a few days ago, and Mr. Crane took occasion to address his men, using as a text, "The Employer and Agent for the Employee." He said, among other good things:

"The employer does not force himself on the employee; each is indispensable to the other and they naturally come together for the benefit of both.

It might be said that the employer is in the nature of an agent for marketing the labor of the employee. Through him the latter is enabled to apply his labor to the raw material furnished by the employer; then the employer, by the sale of the finished article to the consumer, gets back what he advanced for labor, cost of material and all other expenses plus a sum which might be called a commission charged by him for his work as manager.

The employee has no right to complain of his employer unless the latter charges him too great a commission.

In the disposal of any commodity the size of the agent's commission depends upon the difficulty of the task and the amount of risk involved.

The stock broker, for example, who disposes of stocks and bonds for his clients, receives a very small commission, since his work is not laborious, nor does it involve any risk, annoyance or expense to himself.

The real estate agent, who rents and sells houses and lands for his clients, obtains a larger compensation than the stock broker, for the reason that his work is harder and fraught with more annoyance and expense.

How much greater then, should be the commission, or compensation of the manufacturer who secures a market for the labor of the working man, and in so doing—while protecting the laborer from any hazard—takes all the risk in putting up the necessary capital, at the same time confronted by the fiercest competition, the greatest difficulties, and beset on all sides by endless anxieties and annoyances?

The workingman should realize all this and remember that he could never find a purchaser for the one commodity—labor—which he has for sale without the existence of man endowed with the courage, business sagacity, capital and all-round ability sufficient to qualify him for engaging in the very strenuous occupation of any business which employs labor.

The truth contained in Mr. Crane's plain statement of the case is frequently overlooked. The one commodity that a very large majority of humanity have to sell, and the one thing which adds to this commodity is concentration of effort under skillful management.

It matters not how expert a man may be, unless opportunity is furnished to turn his skill to account. This means that capital combined with enterprise must create avenues and supply both money and direction for labor, and this is being done today as never before.

Capital and labor should go hand in hand for the dependence is mutual. Mr. Crane is a humane employer and strikes seldom annoy him. It is worth remembering, however, that of the 30,000,000 employees in this country, only a small fraction of one per cent ever think of striking.

THE COAL FIELDS OF WEST VIRGINIA.

Albert Phenix in the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore says in a paper on West Virginia that it is estimated that fully $50,000,000 will be spent in the coal land section of that state on coal mine developments, railroad construction, timber and wood-working enterprises during 1905, says the Wall Street Journal. It was also estimated that the expenditure for the same purposes in the year before last was about $30,000,000, and during last year nearly as much, making an estimated investment of outside capital of over $100,000,000 for three years. West Virginia has more than 17,000 square miles of coal fields. Since 1880 the coal production in the state has steadily increased. The output has grown from 1,400,000 tons in 1880 to 22,000,000 (short) tons in 1904. For the year ending June 30, 1904, the year ending June 30, 1904, there was mined from 3,967.9 acres, a total of 26,584,715 tons (long) which represents a value at the mines at $1.05 a ton, of $28,322,950. The price of coal fluctuates very much. Today it is worth only 50 cents. Even at this figure, and assuming that the 11,000,000 acres of unworked coal lands will approximate the yield per acre, the reports show in the past there is still in the ground coal worth at 50 cents a ton something like $600,000,000. The cost of mining coal averages now in this state about 70 cents a ton. Royalties are 6 cents. This yields the operator a profit of only four cents a ton. This is manifestly no vast sum, although it serves to pay interest charges on the investment and with this and the rents for houses and the profits of stores, the operator has no thought of shutting down.

The total mileage of railroad let and under construction at this time in this district is 572 miles. This includes 100 miles of line of the Coal River road and branches, which connects with the C. & O. at St. Albans; the 75 miles extension of the Piney Creek branch of the C. & O.; the 15-mile extension of the Cabin Creek branch of the C. & O. and several other C. & O. branches. Then there are 150 miles of the Deep Water road under contract, a 75-mile extension of the Elkins-Davis Coal & Coke road, and the 75 mile line of the Gauley & Blue Creek road to Scranton City.

The department of agriculture is suffering from an over-dose of civil service reform, as is every other department at the National Capitol. Civil service is a high sounding title, but what the people want is plain old fashioned service without frills.

The Governor's Chautauqua tour is not producing the notoriety anticipated. The people at large fail to respond to hypnotic influences and while the "system" and the "machine" may be a menace they refuse to be alarmed by the pessimistic prophet from the Badger state.

The cotton mills of Lancashire, England will employ 10,000 additional workmen this fall. The city has forty-eight spinning mills containing over 4,000,000 spindles, and the outlook for business is encouraging.

One of the southern railways has placed an order for 45,000 tons of steel rails with the Tennessee Coal & Iron company. This speaks well for the south.

Mayor Dunne of Chicago will not live long enough to see the city engaged in running a municipal railroad.

PRESS COMMENT.

Oshkosh Northwestern: All men may be born equal, but some of them hardly get out of the cradle before they begin to steal the opportunities of others.

Chicago Tribune: Outside merchants are flocking to Chicago in large numbers, partly to buy goods and partly to breathe the ozone of America's great summer resort.

Madison Journal: It is sometimes a little discouraging, remarks the Manitowoc Press to remember how much you worked to produce 10 cents' worth of garden peas in your back yard.

Exchange: Mr. Hunt, the Pan-American banker, who went away several months ago in a hasty search for health, has returned and is ready to talk business with the depositors on a 40 per cent basis.

Chicago Tribune: The correspondents are rendering active assistance, but it appears probable notwithstanding that a great deal of the work involved in bringing about peace between Russia and Japan will fall upon the envoys.

Buffalo Evening News: Cubans begin to complain that the politicians are getting in their work and doing a lot of harm to the young republic. They know whether Cuba may turn in time of need.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Whenever an auto accident occurs the explanation is made that the chauffeur did not purposely do the damage. Certainly when a man is scorching he does not have time to plan every twist of the wrist.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Milwaukee is still demanding a recount of its population. Oshkosh ought to have had 35,000, but when the city clerk gave up only 30,001 we quietly submitted without a murmur. Why can't Milwaukee learn metropolitan habits, too?

Racine Journal: It has some appearance of General Miles succeeding Governor Douglas of Massachusetts, as the governor has notified all concerned one term is sufficient, and that he knows when he has had enough. But as to this, it may be possible the Massachusetts republicans may interpose an objection.

Exchange: At Bloomfield, N. J., the other day a trolley car was stopped because of the burning out of the fuse. Luckily, however, there was a woman aboard, and she had a hairpin to spare, so a blockade was avoided. If a great liver should break down in mid-ocean and there were no other means of fixing things, we have faith to believe that all would be well if a woman with a hair pin to spare happened to be among the passengers.

La Crosse Leader-Press: It is now admitted by the district attorney of Milwaukee county that Mr. Pfister was indicted for embezzlement when he was really suspected of bribery, and some of the stalwart friends of Mr. Pfister are inclined to believe that he was indicted for embezzlement and suspected of bribery because he was known to be guilty of being a bad guesser politically.

Chicago Chronicle: The prolonged silence of Dr. Washington Gladden may reasonably be attributed to the doctor's belated realization of the fact that he has been furnishing absolutely gratis a popular line of literature for which he might have driven a good bargain with the publishers of the cheap magazines. Lawson, Tarbell, Steffen & Co., make no such mistakes.

Appleton Crescent: The appointment of Edward Pollock, editor of the Lancaster Teller, as state treasury agent, is another of Governor La Follette's "taking care of his own." The editor was formerly a democrat, who espoused the La Follette cause, and who realizes his remuneration, Eli Pedersen, a Scandinavian, had filled the position but was turned down for Editor Pollock. Eli can go now, turn around and get mad.

Washington Post: A widower is a tame animal and staves without tying. No woman can scare him. He is over-confident and that is his great weakness. He has been through it all and it not to be caught a second time. He feels impervious to the approaches of woman in any form or guise. The widow finds him really a rather knotty problem. He presents difficulties that are wholly absent in a man who has never felt the matrimonial halter draw. He looks upon the widow with amused indifference. But a young and attractive woman who has never been married quickly arouses his sympathies. He, in nine cases out of ten, shows remarkable endurance of her siege of his heart, and we all know that it is but a step from endurance to pity and thence to embraces. His doom is quickly sealed.

Leslie's Monthly: Modern surgery is not only painless and germless; it is also bloodless. A patient can be opened and his stomach taken out, and yet hardly lose more blood than if he had accidentally cut a finger. The location of the large veins and arteries is well known, and the surgeon avoids them in making incisions. The small ones, as soon as severed, are clamped shut by forceps for this purpose, and the surgeon is neither bothered by blood nor the patient weakened from its loss. If, when the forceps are removed to permit the closing of the wound, blood starts from any of the vessels, they are tied up with catgut. In case of amputation the blood is pressed out of the limb and a band is placed around the limb above the joint of operation, which shuts off all circulation. After the amputation has been made, the ends of the veins and arteries are located and tied up—and an operation, once as bloody as battle, has been completed perhaps without a single red blot on the white aprons of surgeons and assistants.

La Crosse Chronicle: Frank Powell, city engineer, seems to have taken the lid off effectively. According to the answer of L. P. Philipp in the damage suit started by Powell the latter has been guilty of immoral conduct of a nature to compel his removal from the service of the public in La Crosse. It is stated that the matters alleged in the answer were known to Mrs. Powell and caused her suicide. It is claimed they were and are known to friends of both, commonly known, the answer states. If these things are true, if they are commonly known, if the mayor of La Crosse knows them or is reasonably assured of their truth, Frank Powell should not serve another day as engineer of the city of La Crosse. La Crosse is made up for the most part of decent people, regardless of the small underworld that exists here also. The money of decent people should not be used to pay the salaries of men who commit the wickedness alleged to Frank Powell. Will the mayor investigate or not?

Whitewater Register: There is a growing feeling that the Chautauquas which have had such a mushroom development the past few years, have already outlived their usefulness. The freedom and irresponsibility of a Chautauqua platform remove the restraint of the home pulpit or rostrum and stimulate license. Consequently lecturers and orators, feeling this opportunity to say things of a sensational character and realizing the lawless demand of the usually unfettered audiences for highly spiced victualing, cut loose and go to the limit in the effort to utter things which will stir up the applause of their hearers and secure for themselves an extra allowance of back headlines in the daily reports. As a result we have been regaled of late years, and especially this summer, with "hot stuff" which had far better never have been heard. Sunday services have been given up to declamatory abuse and vapors which would not have been tolerated on any day of the week by audience of a generation ago. The louder the denunciation, and the more inconspicuous the charity, the more successful seems to be the speech of a modern Chautauqua "star." The sermon on the Mount would have had a poor background these days on an average Chautauqua platform.

Chicago Record-Herald: Guy M. Bradley, warden of the National Association of Audubon Societies, was killed not long ago on an island off the Florida coast in an encounter with a man named Walter Smith, who is described as a professional game hunter. Bradley's friends say that he was a martyr in the cause of bird protection. Smith declares that he himself was compelled to act in self-defense. Bradley had put one of Smith's two sons who were with him under arrest, and when Smith protested had fired upon him. A jury will try to get at the truth of the affair, but it is not necessary to wait for its findings in order to pass judgment on the general conditions of which the shooting is an incident. In the great bird drama that has resulted almost in the extermination of the egrets there are three sets of offenders, comprising the hunters, a miscellaneous lot of merchants and numerous vain and heartless or thoughtless and ignorant women. Responsibility rests most of all upon the women, without whose demand for the birds there would be no slaughter of those innocents. The merchants are thinking only of making money, and in their eagerness put a premium on law-breaking. It is said, for example, that New York feather dealers have offered $32 an ounce for the plumes. That, of course, is a big temptation for the class of men to whom the appeal is made, and though they know well enough that the laws prohibit the killing of the birds and prescribe penalties for their infraction, they are willing to take the risks for such large bribes. The story of the killing has been gone over so often that it is probably known to most readers of the newspapers, but a few points deserve to be emphasized nevertheless. Egrets are not only beautiful because of their plumage, but harmless and of exceptional interest to naturalists on account of peculiarities in their coloration. They are not valued as food, and there is no purpose in killing them except to supply the trade of which we have spoken. Moreover, the killing is done under circumstances of great cruelty. The birds are sought commonly in the breeding season, with the result that whole families are wiped out, and it is no strange, therefore, that they are now rare where they were once so numerous. It is impossible to review the story with patience, but possibly its import is not yet realized by the retail purchasers of plumes. It may be solely from lack of knowledge that they wear a badge that seems to convict them of inhumanity and the encouragement of law-breaking. And they would be deeply shocked, no doubt, at the killing of a man as part of the business of plume hunting.

What the Deacon Wanted to Say.

A good old deacon in Colchester, Ct., who had a somewhat pompous and majestic air, once arose in a temperance meeting in the Congregational church of that town and said: "Every time I see a young man coming out of a saloon door I want to go up to that young man, lay him on the shoulder, and say: 'Turn right around, young man; you're going the wrong way!'"

Sexton Mistook the Day. The inhabitants of Madlex were alarmed this morning by the ringing of the church bell. Leaving their work they seized pails and started, thinking that an alarm of fire was being rung. Investigation proved that the sexton had mistaken the day and supposed he was ringing the bell for the Sunday morning service.—St. Albans Messenger.

TWAS BIG DAY FOR EDGERTON

PEOPLE TRAVELED MILES FOR T. A. & B. PICNIC.

FOUR THOUSAND VISITORS

Enjoyed Horse Races in Which a Fine Field of Speedy Ones Were Entered.

The Father Mathew Total Abstinence and Benevolent society's annual picnic at the race track in Edgerton yesterday was a decided success, both financially and socially. The attendance was the largest in the history of the association, numbering about four thousand people. As a part of the morning program there was a baseball game between the Milton Creggents and the Clinton All Stars which resulted in a victory for the Clinton team. Rev. Dunn also delivered an address. The afternoon was given up to four races, games, a balloon ascension, and horse races, and the latter were the best seen in this part of the state for many years.

Good Horses Entered.

At two o'clock in the afternoon Starter McGinnis called forth the horses for the 2:20 class, in which there were eight contestants. "S. H. N." owned by C. W. Hamilton of Milwaukee, C. W. Hamilton driver, won this race. "Diamond Queen," William Gammi of Madison, Al Helms driver, came in for second place. In the 2:40 class, "Glen Ellen," Ed. Fess, Madison, Al Helms driver, took three first heats. "Kaci T.," Dr. A. J. Nelson, Sloughton, A. J. Nelson driver, took the three straight heats for second place; and "Roy Spangle," Morgan Edwards of Milwaukee, Morgan Edwards driver, was third. The free-for-all race was the hottest contested race of the day, which was won by "Dumpy," P. J. Andrews of Delavan, P. J. Andrews driver. "Freemont S.," H. Seavert of Clinton, driven by Joe Bassett, was second. "Nicholas J.," J. E. McCarthy of Fond du Lac, driven by McCarthy, took third money. It was about eight o'clock when the three-minute class started their race. "John Dillon," Joseph Bassett of Clinton, driver, Joseph Bassett, was first. "Grandma," Jas. Conway of Edgerton, M. Conway driver, was second. Some very fast time was made in all the events, and the society is to be congratulated upon the good field of horses which they had entered for the meet.

The day's outing was concluded by a dance at Royal hall in the evening in which two hundred couples participated. The delegation from Janesville returned about 11 o'clock last night, well pleased with the hospitality of the Edgerton people.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN MADE NEAR EAST MADISON

ROUNDHOUSE IS PARTLY WRECKED

NEARLY A FATAL ACCIDENT ON ST. PAUL PROPERTY.

FIVE MEN BARELY ESCAPE

Small Piece of Projecting Steel on Engine Tank Knocks Door Post Out.

As locomotive number 219 was being taken from the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad company's roundhouse here shortly after eight o'clock this morning a small piece of bent steel, less than six inches long and three quarters of an inch in diameter projecting from the tank, caught an iron door post, shoved it from place and allowed the roof over two stalls to fall, burying two engines and all but seriously injuring if not killing five men.

Roof Collapses.

Engineer Scannell and fireman Luske, both of Chicago had been called to take the engine and while the former went in the roundhouse to pull it out the latter remained near the round table. One of the steel bands around the tank had been broken and one end bent outward. This came in contact with the door post as the engine proceeded and when the support was pulled from under the roof, the entire covering over the stalls collapsed.

No One Injured.

Engineer Scannell heard the first noise of breaking timber and quickly putting on the air brakes fled from the cab and, through a rear window of the building. Sixteen others, at work in the building, heard the cracking sound and the house was quickly emptied of men. Four employees were working where the roof fell but all escaped without the slightest injury. They were Leroy Williams, Edwin Mead, Michael Griffin and Richard Dunn.

Two Engines Buried.

Besides engine number 219 another locomotive was buried by the timber and roof. Several large rafters crashed through the cab of one engine and had a man been at work within it would have been impossible to escape instant death. Though the wall on the southeastern side of the building did not fall the loss will be large.

A Wrecked Mass.

The south end of the building now presents a scene of broken timber, ruined masonry and slightly wrecked engines. Long roof supports rest across the engines and had not the air brakes been set the locomotive would have proceeded to the turn table and probably pulled the entire building down.

Stranger Within Our Gates Wants to Know Why Stores Are Not Numbered.

Janesville, Aug. 9, 1935. Janesville Daily Gazette: Why don't Janesville merchants put off the swaddling clothes of a country town and get numbers up over the doors of their business places? Not one in ten seems to have them up, though I presume they have more or less on their stationary. But what's the use of having them on letterheads and bills if they are not on the places of business? Also why not have the names up so one walking on the sidewalks in front of their places can see them and not have to go across the street or out in the road to read them? Do they enter only to country traders who drive in on the road?

Cy Young Tells How to Pitch

Command of Ball Is First Essential---The Jump Ball---When to Vary Delivery---High and Low Balls---Throwing to Bases.

By CY YOUNG, Veteran pitcher of Boston Americans. Command of the ball is the first essential to success in pitching. A good, fast, overhand ball, kept high, is the one I depend on mostly when anxious to get an out.

CY YOUNG IN POSITION TO DELIVER AN OUTSHOOT.

widest curves. This style is of little use, however, unless the umpire is a good judge of corner work. When in good shape I use a jump ball considerably. It comes with extra speed, and it worked well into the batsman's hands the most difficult ball to hit. The ball should be kept high when the batsman is out for a sacrifice, and a clever slow ball with a change of pace is very effective when you want to see the batsman send up a weak fly. The underhand ball with a raise I use but very little, as it has a tendency to lame the arm and must be curved as well as raised.

FASHION'S "DOCTOR" FREAKS

Transformations in Woman's Complexion Productive of Confusion.

"I'm glad I'm not my wife," said the dyspeptic, according to the Philadelphia Record, as he settled down to his hygienic luncheon of rare roast beef, creamed onions and boiled rice; "I'd be dead if I were. I have trouble enough keeping alive as it is. Fancy the shape I'd be in if I had to change my spots—I mean my color—as often as fickle fashion dictates. Why, I've forgotten what color my wife originally was, she's undergone so many beauty transformations. And now she's got to do it again. A friend just back from the other side has told her that though her hair continues to be the proper caper it must now be backed up by green eyes and a dead white skin. The hair and skin are easy enough, but even my wife is a little afraid of the beauty specialist who is willing to undertake to make her eyes look green. There's just one grain of comfort in it all for me—though she achieve the pallid skin, the green eyes and the red hair it will not give her a temperament to correspond. I shall yet enjoy the medium of peace it is in her capricious nature to allow me."

HER MANNER MAY CHANGE

When a Woman Is Displeased She Is Not Forgetful of Society Manners.

She was plainly irritated about something and sat pouting as she ate in a downtown restaurant, and not saying a word to the man with her, evidently her husband, relates the Chicago Tribune. Before the luncheon was finished another man came in. The husband knew him and called him over to their table and introduced him. The woman was then all smiles and smiles. Her anger disappeared completely, and she even included her husband in her sunny views of life.

Bridling the Tongue

There is more than mere cynicism in Talleyrand's remark that "speech was given to man to conceal his thoughts." If we are to live in peace and harmony with our fellows we must conceal many thoughts, unless we are endowed with a mind in which no unkind, or unpleasant thought can find lodgment. We may think that Neighbor X is more agreeable than Neighbor Y, and that Mrs. A's daughter is more beautiful than Mrs. B's, and that Dr. Pili is a better physician than Dr. Pellet; but what unpleasantness it would create if we were to say these things to Dr. Pellet, or to Mrs. B, or to Neighbor Y!

Spain's Linguistic King

King Alfonso has a fair claim to be regarded as the best educated of our crowned heads. He is a linguist, being familiar with French, Italian, German and English. He never travels without Goethe, Schiller and the Austrian poet, Grillparzer, whose name will be new to most people. Of the ancient classics King Alfonso prefers Horace, many of whose odes he has translated into Spanish. Moreover, he revels in mathematics and history, and adores drawing. What attention he has paid to English literature is not made public.

Bouquets of Thornless Roses

Contrary to poetic fancy, the roses carried by maids and matrons of society this season are without even the suspicion of a thorn, says the New York Press. Not that they are a peculiar variety, for when they come from the parent stem they are in condition to wound the fingers as of old. But under the new method the blooms alone are used, the stems being discarded. The new bouquets, if they may be called such, are shaped something like a fan and are flat at the back. The flowers are fastened on a frame which is lined with silk, so that they may be held against the most delicate of frocks. The bouquet originated in London and so pleased Queen Alexandra that she permitted it to be named after her.

Mr. B. T. Fish, of 355 Ravine street, proprietor of the Fish Dray Line says: "When I was twenty years of age I fell inuring my back, and ever since that I was troubled more or less with a dull aching pain across the loins. It never laid me up but it was often painful and annoying. Of late years I have gone to a physician every six months and had myself thoroughly examined under the impression that there might be something wrong with my kidneys. The diagnosis always resulting in the physician claiming these organs were sound, but as the pains existed when I happened to notice in our Jamesville papers that Doan's Kidney Pills were guaranteed to cure just such troubles I procured a box at the People's Drug store and took them. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good preparation. My back has not ached since I used them. I have heard others speak very complimentary of them and if I did not know their merit and required such a medicine I would consider it a favor if some one suggested their use to me. For this reason I endorse them."

NATION'S CHIEF AT WILKESBARRE

ing about (even though he may not see all sides of the case,) and tells us what he has to say, not with a desire to hurt our feelings, but with the transparent purpose to do us good. With this foreword, here is a part of the letter:

"I would humbly recommend that you lend your entire weight to the cause which the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America represents, and especially so in its relation to the working classes of this country, for whom it is doing so much good. You know that the temperance movement is a potent auxiliary to the institutions of our country in building up a better manhood and a truer Christianity among our citizens."

Temperance And Strikes.

It played a very important part in the two coal strikes of 1900 and 1902, respectively, by keeping the men sober, and thus removing the danger of riotous and unbecoming conduct. There is one discouraging feature connected with the upward tendency of the wage scale among the workmen of this country. The higher the wages, the more money they spend in saloons. The shorter the hours, the more they are inclined to absent themselves from home. An apparent disregard for family ties is growing among the poorer classes which will eventually lead to a disregard for the blessings our country affords them. Hence, with an increase of wages a corresponding movement for better manhood, nobler citizenship and truer Christianity should be set on foot. The dignity of labor should be maintained, which can be done only through the love that a man should have for his work, and through the intelligence which he puts into it. A steady hand and sober mind are necessary for this. Hence, the necessity of the temperance cause and of the efforts which organized abstainers are putting into the movement."

Now, in what is here written this priest does not mean that the tendency is to grow worse; but he means that with shorter hours and increased wages there is a tendency to go wrong which must be offset by movements such as this great temperance movement and similar efforts for social and civic betterment or else the increase in leisure and money will prove a curse instead of a blessing. I strive never to tell anyone what I do not thoroughly believe, and I shall not say to you that to be honest, and temperate, and hard-working, and thrifty will always bring success."

Chances of Success.

The hand of the Lord is sometimes heavy upon the just as well as upon the unjust, and in the life of labor and effort which we must lead on this earth it is not always possible either by work, by wisdom, or by upright behavior to ward off disaster. But it is most emphatically true that the chance for leading a happy and prosperous life is immensely improved if only the man is decent, sober, industrious and exercises foresight and judgment. Let him remember above all that the performance of duty is the first essential to right living, and that a good type of average family life is the corner stone of national happiness and greatness. No man can be a good citizen, can deserve the respect of his fellows, unless first of all he is a good man in his own family, unless he does his duty faithfully by his wife and children."

Believes in Trade Unions.

I strongly believe in trades unions wisely and justly handled, in which the rightful purpose to benefit those connected with them is not accompanied by a desire to do injustice or wrong to others. I believe in the duty of capitalist and wage-worker to try to seek one another out, to understand each other's point of view, and to endeavor to show broad and kindly human sympathy one with the other."

I believe in the work of these great temperance organizations, of all kindred movements like the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, in short in every movement which strives to help a man by teaching him how to help himself. But most of all I believe in the efficacy of the man himself striving continually to increase his own self-respect by the way in which he does his duty to himself and to his neighbor."

DUCK HUNTER'S HARD LUCK

Big Supply of Ammunition Proved Unavailable at a Critical Moment.

"If there is one thing of which I have absolutely no knowledge, it is hunting and fishing," remarked John S. Inglis, according to the San Francisco Chronicle. "I never caught a fish or killed a bird in my life, and I suppose I never will. I couldn't tell you the difference between a striped bass and a mallard duck, unless it came in on a platter. But I have a friend who is a sportsman. You never saw such a keen sportsman in your life. He has a big roomful of guns and fishing tackle and all kinds of sporting paraphernalia. He used to worry the life out of me with his persistent invitations to go hunting and fishing. Finally I agreed to go duck hunting with him. He provided all the regalia. Among other things, he ordered a lot of shells from a downtown gun store, and I was to go and get the shells and pack them in my grip. I got the package from the gun store and we went to Alviso. We were proceeding up a slough in a small boat in the cool of the early morning when we ran into a million ducks."

"Open up that package of shells," yelled my friend.

"I opened the package. It contained 36 pounds of assorted fish bones. I haven't been duck hunting since."

ALL MAIL MUST BE FUMIGATED

Louisiana Postoffices Refusing Will Be Abandoned—Stores Are Being Closed in New Orleans.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-MAR.]

New Orleans, La., Aug. 10.—The government has decided to abandon all postoffices where citizens persist in accepting mail unfumigated. This has already been done in the Vinton Calcasieu Parish. Mail addressed to Vinton will be returned to the senders or the dead letter office.

Twelve New Cases.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 10.—Five deaths and twelve new cases had been reported up to noon.

Combat with Disease.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 10.—Wednesday was the first day since the fever appeared here in which there was any apparent depression in the community, and there are two reasons for it. One was the death of Archbishop Chapelle, who succumbed to an attack of the prevailing illness, and the other was the general closing of stores in accordance with the mayor's proclamation urging everybody to devote the day to a general home cleaning up.

While the death of the distinguished prelate is deplored because of the loss which the community sustains, it is also regretted because of the effect it will have upon the outside world. It is feared that it will cause the belief to spread that conditions here are really much worse than they are.

Chairman Janvier received a telegram from Gov. Blanchard stating that more than a majority of the members of the legislature had repelled favorably to the appropriation of the $100,000 to the fever fund, so the loan will be effected with the financial agents at once. The city's contribution of $50,000 will be available in a day or two. In the meantime the citizens are coming forward, and the fund will be completed in a short time.

Few Cases in Country. News outside of the city shows that there are only two new cases at Patterson and one case in a new locality in St. Charles parish.

Miss M. T. Ryan, who has been the librarian at the John Hopkins university in Baltimore for about five years, is suffering from the fever. Miss Ryan and her sister were among the first in the fashionable section of the city to be attacked. Their lives have several times been despaired of.

It was announced at Dr. Warner's office that action would be taken against property holders and tenants who are unwilling to acquiesce in the sanitary and other precautions recommended by the health authorities. House to house inspections are to be instituted, and affidavits are to be prepared against those who are shown to be derelict.

Government Now in Control. Actual control of the sanitary work has passed to the marine hospital service, Dr. Gessner being placed in immediate charge. Advice from Mississippi indicate that the people of the rural districts are growing restless under the severity of the quarantines, which have proved of great inconvenience to them in cutting off their supplies.

This is regarded as encouraging in view of the modified views of Secretary Hunter of Mississippi with regard to quarantines. Dr. Hunter announces himself utterly opposed to shotgun quarantines, and throughout Mississippi a saner spirit is manifesting itself since the federal government has relieved the local authorities.

A great street cleaning campaign was begun Wednesday. Besides the paid laborers of the city and the prisoners from the jails and house of detention, thousands of volunteers took off their coats and rolled up their sleeves and went to work to give New Orleans a thorough scrubbing.

Hundreds of carts and wagons were employed in carrying off the refuse.

APPLEJACK IN THE CHURCH LEMONADE

Miscreant Stirs the Two Together and Performances of Young Men and Women Shock Elders.

New York, Aug. 10.—A gallon of Jersey applejack poured into a large can filled with lemonade at a church festival has caused no end of trouble in the hamlet of Annandale, N. J.

After drinking freely of the concoction a number of young men and women performed strange antics at the festival which shocked the staid old men and women of the village and stirred up a scandal that will be the talk of the town and countryside for many days. Just who introduced the applejack into the lemonade is a mystery which the committee in charge of the festival has been trying to solve.

At first there was an attempt to keep the affair quiet, but the fact that a number of young women of the community of high moral character performed a skirt dance and did some high kicking on the church lawn, while others became hysterical and ill from the effects of the mixed drink was more than the church committee would stand.

It is reported that a number of arrests will be made that will give the community another shock. A member of the church committee intimates that the applejack was not poured into the lemonade by any member of the Annandale church, but by highly respected members of society of a nearby town.

GOVERNOR HOCH ON STANDARD OIL CO.

Kansas People Demand That the Great Trust Be Decent, Says Sunflower State Executive.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 10.—Gov. E. W. Hoch of Kansas, the foe of the Standard Oil, passed through Chicago on Wednesday night, accompanied by his wife, daughter, and military staff, on his way to Philadelphia, where his daughter is to christen the battleship Kansas.

He declared if he and his daughter have their way about it water will be substituted for wine in the christening.

The governor remained in Chicago one hour and thirty minutes, during which time he was shaved in a "cave" barber shop, decorated those who met him at the station with Kansas sunflowers, spoke enthusiastically of the crop situation in his state, and incidentally indulged in a few slaps at Gov. La Follette, Attorney Jerome of New York, and last, but not least, at Tom Lawson of Boston.

Wants Trusts to "Behave."

The party arrived over the Santa Fe at 8:50 p. m., in the private car Cadillac at the Dearborn street station.

As Gov. Hoch stepped from the car he was met by a party of friends. Adjutant General J. W. F. Hughes of the governor's staff acted as major domo during the trip.

The governor declared the first thing he wanted to do was to get shaved, and asked for a barber shop. He was escorted to one on Dearborn street. Reclining in the chair, he called to some newspaper men.

"Fire ahead, boys; I am ready," he said.

"What are we going to do about the Standard Oil Company? Why, we are going to make them act decent. That's the slogan in Kansas. 'Make the Standard Oil Company act decent,' and we are going to do it."

Thinks Jerome is Amusing.

The governor declared the passage of the recent supplemental laws which make the pipe lines common carriers, fix a maximum freight rate for crude oil, and stop the discrimination which the Standard Oil Company has been practicing has done much to help the people in their fight against the trust. It was suggested to the governor that the recent "talk fest" in Kansas was not a pronounced success.

"Well, I don't know," said the Governor. "Jerome was amusing. He came down there and violated all the proprieties."

"Lawson—well, he was a disappointment, and La Follette came down to tell us something and delivered his Hamlet lecture, which was nice, but did not have anything to do with oil."

The Governor and his party left at 10:24 p. m. over the Grand Trunk railroad for Philadelphia. The christening of the Kansas will take place at 11:30 Saturday morning.

NEWLY INVENTED SOLDER.

Composition Into Which Aluminum Is Introduced Proves Satisfactory.

The experimenters with aluminum at last cry Eureka and produce a solder which solders, says the Chicago Tribune. Tin, zinc, lead, and aluminum are used in definite proportions, together with a small quantity of resin to act as a flux or protecting covering to the metals when being melted. The most satisfactory results, the inventors say, have been obtained with a mixture comprising 64 parts by weight of tin, 30 parts zinc, one part lead, and one part aluminum, to which is added a small quantity of resin.

To apply the solder to the surfaces that are to be joined the meeting edges are simply cleaned or scraped and the surfaces then faced with the spider. The surfaces are not subjected to any chemical or other like bath such as are required for the majority of solders used for this purpose.

While any ordinary soldering tool may be used, the inventors prefer one of aluminum in place of one of copper. The surfaces of the metals that are to be joined are subjected to a gentle heat for assisting the deposit of the molten solder when flowing from the soldering iron.

The British Speaker.

Not only does the speaker of the house of commons enjoy the material benefits of a lordly residence at Westminster place, a salary of £5,000 a year, £1,000 a year for stationery, and two bighsheads of claret and 2,000 ounces of plate on election, but he enjoys the less substantial advantage of taking precedence of all other commoners. By an act of 1689 it was provided that the lords commissioners of the great seal not being peers "shall have and take place next after the peers of the realm and the speaker of the house of commons."

Impossible.

CHINKS ARE READY TO LIFT BOYCOTT

Wu Ting Fang Outlines Terms for the Negotiation of a New Treaty with U. S.

First—Fair and courteous treatment two important concessions from the United States as a price for lifting the boycott now in force against American commerce and ships. Those two concessions are:

First—Fair and courteous treatment of Chinese merchants, tourists and students when visiting the United States.

Second—The admission of Chinese laborers to Hawaii and the Philippines without restrictions.

The foregoing demands were outlined by Wu Ting Fang, formerly Chinese minister to the United States, and now vice president of the Chinese board of foreign affairs.

Wu Ting Fang, in his interview, said that the existing regulations for the exclusion of Chinese from the United States were unsatisfactory from the Chinese standpoint, and hence it was desired that they should be modified by a new treaty. The Chinese, he said, agreed to the exclusion of coolies, but the existing regulations pressed with severity on other classes. He instanced the cases of merchants, travelers for pleasure, students, and others who, while nominally admissible to the United States, were forced to undergo examinations which were exceedingly objectionable on account of the manner in which they were made.

What China Complains Of.

"A superior Chinaman, arriving at San Francisco, for example," said Mr. Wu, "is detained by the authorities while his credentials are being examined, and this detention frequently involves consorting with low class coolies in a common shed. He is unable to communicate with friends and is subjected to indignities to which Americans would refuse to submit. Moreover, he is not allowed to retain the services of any one to protect his interests; and if the immigration authorities decide against him there is no possibility of appeal."

"That these grievances are well founded is demonstrated by the necessity for President Roosevelt's stringent order that courtesy be shown the Chinese by the immigration officials under pain of dismissal. There have been numberless instances of harsh treatment which the Americans themselves have been forced to admit."

Mr. Wu admitted that European immigrants were not allowed representation by lawyers or others during their examinations, but he rejected this argument because he said, the Chinese in other respects were given treatment entirely different than accorded the Europeans.

Wants Door to Hawaii Open.

The Chinese government, he said, agreed to the exclusion of coolies, but it urged as the main points of a new convention that the better classes of Chinese be treated on an equal footing with other aliens, with the right to retain counsel and the right of appeal if necessary, and the admission of coolies to Hawaii, which he regarded as of the utmost importance.

Hawaii was greatly in need of laborers, Mr. Wu said, and since the Chinese were excluded the industries of the islands had suffered. At all events, the Chinese there could not compete with American labor.

The Philippines, he said, had long been a natural field for Chinese industry, but the application of the exclusion act to the islands had changed this.

Regarding the desirability of Chinese labor in the far east Mr. Wu instanced the prosperity of Singapore, in the Straits Settlements, and the adjacent country.
